Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 85-86 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Burns et al.

Applicants' new claims are directed to substantially the same invention as previously rejected.

Burns et al. teaches in column 6 lines 54-65 and columns 22-23 lines 47-30 respectively, teach a heating means and a melt able material that is able to partially resolidify (co. 23 lines 16-19) when cooled. This has been read on the claimed "elastically deformable". Column 23 lines 26-29 teach the melt able material can be wax, polymer or plastic. Applicants state Burns et al. fail to teach the claimed "reversibly, thermally deformable" material.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 11/18/03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicants argue Burns et al. fails to teach at least one wall that is elastically deformable. This language is sufficiently broad to encompass the materials taught by Burns et al.

Applicants state the device taught by Burns et al. does not change in volume upon heating as does the instant invention. The Office disagrees and maintains the volume available for the fluid within the channel containing the melt able material does increase upon melting.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
